Government Tightens Barriers Against Aliens

Economic conditions abroad have stirred a new wave of migration among foreigners throughout the world. Most of those who seek entry to United States are barred because their quota is filled. Others are unable to meet the strict financial requirements. As a result, a greater number of aliens are attempting to make illegal entry each year. In 1934 more than 20,000 who were trying to smuggle themselves across the border were intercepted. Colonel D. W. MacCormack, chief of immigration bureau, estimated that 200,000 aliens are illegally in this country. More than 20,000 were deported last year. MacCormack urges changes in the immigration laws which will "humanize" them and also make possible deportation of additional "undesirables".

CAMP HALSEY IS COMMENDED

'Superior,' Says General Heintzelman

Camp Halsey, March 4. Major General Stewart Heintzelman, commanding officer of the seventh corps area, with a group of army officers from the district headquarters of the CCC in Little Rock, inspected Camp Halsey near Centerville Saturday afternoon. Col. H. L. McAlister, Fred C. Newport, S. D. Mitchell and Gene Williams of Conway accompanied the party to the camp.

General Heintzelman praised the officers and men of the camp highly. He said the camp was "superior" compared with others he had visited. This is General Heintzelman's first visit to Arkansas in his official capacity as commanding general. His itinerary as tentatively planned included seven CCC camps.

MAKER IN PLEA FOR PASSAGE OF BUDGET MEASURE

Gov. Says State Is Losing $6,000 In Revenue Daily

Little Rock, March 4.—(AP)—The governor's lower branch, like Caesar, was admonished today by Speaker J. Thorn to beware of the March unless millions of dollars in revenue were raised before the adjournment on March 14. He urged the house to final action on the liquor bill. A legislature swung into the days of its regular session, he said that each day liquor is sold the state loses $6,000. He frequently is failing to meet a federal obligation to the federal government to match funds for relief, he said. He stopped Saturday. He, however, preferred to other measures during the session and Thorn was expected to request for action in the house. If not granted, then the bill will come up in regular order.

He pointed out that 75,000 Arkansans were thrown out of relief by the state's reliance for subsistence by federal relief funds. The estimated $1,800,000 annual liquor taxes would go toward solving the problem. The senate is yet to act upon the liquor bill, passed last month. The house has not determined whether it will take up the Hall sen- cent sales tax bill.

The house adopted an amendment to the bill which would remove J. S. Cargile of the state commission. The amendment would re-district the highway engineering commission.

No. 6, headquarters at Little Rock, composed of Faulkner, Siskiyou, Garland, Lonoke, Hot Spring and Grant counties. The effect of the amendment is to move the district headquarters from Forrest City to Monticello. The present commission expires in two years ago.

The house voted, 56 to 21, to create a share bureau asked by the Legislature. The bill, by Craxton, had a close shave after a roll arose to say before the vote finished that the bill was an expense of $1,000. Several members changed from "aye" to "nay" and then arose to deny the bill an expense to anyone except the Legislature.
